

MATRA

The Matra mountain range took millions of years to form as a result of several stages of volcanic activity on the territory of today's Hungary.

The design of the panels reflects the distinctive character and aura of Matra.

Shaped by the forces of nature, this mystical world projects mysterious power and dominance.

Spaces adorned with Matra panels are multi-faceted, as is the mountain itself, showing a new face on approach from every direction.

High peaks and steep slopes alternate with gentle valleys.
